Keep the Lake Clean, Clear and Beautiful.

“It was the story of the year for Hulett’s,” says George Kapusinski, a third generation resident of Hulett’s Landing. In 2009, the Lake George Association removed about 1500 cubic yards of sediment from the delta at Foster Brook, near George’s property. “This really was a lake saving project,” he says. “Everything was washing down the stream and backing up at the mouth. Large expanses of rocky gravel, boulders, and silty water were in front of homes that once had beautiful lake views. Boating and swimming were hampered, docks were landlocked, and property values suffered. About 5 years ago, the winter ice melt made the brook overflow its banks. It flooded many yards. Today our beautiful shoreline is restored and back to what it once was,” says George. “The smelt have come back and we actually have tourists coming to see them. The project was a tremendous boost for our entire community, a good thing in every way.”

While the sediment removal itself took just over a week to complete, the $50,000 project was the culmination of over 15 years of planning. Several significant upstream projects were completed prior to the shoreline restoration, including stabilizing the streambank and installing a catch basin. And George was on our side throughout. Support our efforts and learn more:
